RULES

- A. An individual receipt is issued for each bale of cotton. This receipt must be surrendered when cotton is shipped. Each receipt carries the Compress Tag Number, and this number is the only one recognized by the Compress. The receipt contains the terms and conditions under which cotton is received and held and it is understood that these terms and conditions are accepted by the holder of each receipt.
- B. All applicable charges must be paid before cotton is delivered unless other arrangements have been previously made. Any adjustment of charges between buyer and seller must be made by those parties as we hold the shipper responsible for all charges. All charges are due and payable at our general office in Taylor, Williamson County, Texas.
- C. All cotton is held at owner's risk for any loss of damage from riot, civil commotion, act of war, strikes, floods, unavoidable casualty, inherent or latent defects, invisible or concealed damage, natural shrinkage or weather damage occurring thereto on account of its receipt in wet condition.
- D. FIRE INSURANCE provided for under the Insured Warehouse Receipt is carried under the standard form policy in use by cotton warehousemen in the State of Texas. The Owner of an Insured Warehouse Receipt shall be protected for any loss or damage by FIRE ONLY for its market value as defined in the standard form of fire policy. In the event of fire, accrued charges covering those services which have been performed must be paid by the owner. If anyone having cotton stored under this tariff has sold or contracted to sell such cotton at a price higher than the market value as defined in the insurance policy, it shall be that person's responsibility to secure any additional insurance desired to cover the difference between the market value and the contracted value.
- E. All instructions regarding handling, sampling or shipping cotton must be written in DUPLICATE AND IN NUMERICAL ORDER.
- F. Storage charges on rail, truck, and container shipments will stop five days after receiving complete shipping order or on shippers requested load date, except as provided by Rule K. Shipments which cannot be delivered for causes not controlled by Taylor Compress will be charged storage until loaded. Orders not picked up after 3 days of agreed upon load date will be assessed a charge of $2.50 per bale in addition to other charges. Orders not picked up in 30 days of agreed upon load date will be returned to stock and tariff item #10 will apply. Early Shipping Orders (ESO's) will be assessed an administrative charge of $25.00 for each order, and receipts must be delivered through EWR, Inc. at least 3 days prior to load date. If receipts are delivered less than 3 days prior to load date, a $2.50 per bale extra handling fee will be assessed.
- G. While this Compress will make every reasonable effort to forward an adequate and truly representative sample from every bale from which a sample is properly ordered, our responsibility for missing or inadequate samples will be limited to the replacement of samples of bales still on hand in our warehouse when notice of such missing or inadequate sample is received at our warehouse.
- H. Gross weight shown on warehouse receipts is weight determined by our weighers. Tare shown is identical tare as certified to us by the ginners or from information furnished us by previous warehouseman. Net weight shown is our calculation of gross weight less tare. Calculation of such net weight is not guaranteed and our liability for errors is limited to correction thereof on warehouse receipts.
- I. When called upon by the owner to reduce the weight of a bale of cotton, the order must be in writing and the warehouse receipt must be surrendered. The excess cotton will be returned to owner or the cotton may be sold to the Compress.
- J. We reserve the right to make collection of all accrued charges on July 31st of each year.
- K. All shipments will be made as promptly as possible. Storage and/or other charges shall continue to accrue when delays in handling caused by events beyond our control such as strikes, shortage of labor, fuel or supplies, boxcar or truck shortage, service or shipping orders received in excess of normal capacity to execute, war, etc., and the Compress will assume no liability due to any loss to the owners caused by any of the foregoing events.
